THE NEWSPAPER.

"The public is insistent in its demands. It expects the newspaper to be a pack horse, a dray team, a ditch digger, a gas inspector, a water tester, a special policeman, a detective bureau, a dog chaser, a sidewalk fixer, a cow finder, a thief catcher, a business pusher, a house seller, a paving inspector, a sewer director, a pocketbook finder, a lost article hunter, council regulator, fraud discoverer, panic preventer, obituary preacher, chief tally pointer at weddings and social functions, sporting mascot, fish liar, big egg prevaricator, snake story expander, judge on earliest gardens, business boomer, husband finder, sweetheart securer, school inspector, and general all-round handy man for the community. "In fact, if there is a single thing of importance to human life and human happiness that doesn't go through the newspaper it has never yet been discovered. It touches every feature of human endeavor from the cradle to the grave. It smiles with those who smile and weeps with those who mourn. It is everywhere, all the time, the most busy, most useful of all public agencies. It makes mistakes. All human agencies do. Sometimes it is dishonest. But it stands out so in the glare of the age light of publicity that it can but half succeed if dishonest, and then only for a brief time."

Is this a plaint? Not at all. It is a psalm of rejoicing. The newspaper likes it. It enjoys the work. It has no desire for riches. It has no ambition for place or power.

The true newspaper is not an office hunter or a spoils grabber. It has no use for wealth, because it would have no time to spend and enjoy the spending. The real newspaper has one absorbing ambition, one constant aim, one ardent desire and that is to be useful, helpful to the community. It wants to be the servant of the people. It wants to make itself a power by the service it renders, by the good it does. And yet there are times when even the newspaper rebels. It grows tired of service, wants to take a day off and go fishing—and this season of the year always brings around that tired feeling that nothing short of outing will relieve. And that shows that the newspaper is human after all.—Adrian (Mich.) Telegram.

FROM OUR STATE EXCHANGES.

Clean politics, honest methods, and a proper regard for the intelligence of its readers, regardless of the latter's political preferences, are as necessary to the success of a newspaper as to that of any other business institution.—Pensacola Journal.

The DeFuniak Breeze thinks that Burr's election ought to be considered a monument to the use of printer's ink. It certainly was the result of a liberal use of printer's ink, and an example which candidates of the future may well emulate to advantage. And Burr without probably spent less than any of them.—Pensacola Journal.

Notwithstanding the general supposition that nearly all of the available lands in the State are in the hands of private owners and corporations, there is still a vast domain owned by the government and open to settlement and entry. According to the Gainesville Sun, which is in a position to know as the United States land office is located in that town, there are yet 1,400,000 acres of land in Florida subject to entry.—Eustis Lake Region.

Capt. Roebuck, of Bassinger, arrived on Saturday with the largest shipment of gator hides ever marketed in Kissimmee. There were 1,282 in the lot. His cargo comes by steamer to Lake Kissimmee and from thence is transported by ox teams across country.—Kissimmee Valley Gazette.

Thirty-seven counties in Nebraska show a decrease in population by the census of 1900 from those of 1890. Notwithstanding the freeze of 1895 but two counties in this State suffered a loss of population, Lake and Orange. And they have within the past two years recovered the loss.—St. Augustine Record.

It strikes most Democrats as being rather childish for those who are defeated to cry out that somebody "killed" them. Defeat is one of the unalterable ends of someone's political aspirations, and men always take their defeat straight. It is to be hoped that the various democrats over the State will bear this in mind and take more of an interest in party affairs.—Tampa Herald.

THE BABY SHOW.

The baby show was a decided success in spite of the weather. Twenty-four little tots assembled to combat for the prize, and each and every one was worthy, so that it was hard to make the necessary choices. The parade had to take place within the pavilion, but it was a pretty sight to see the babies circling round and round in their beautifully decorated carriages, go-carts and wagons. Then came the judging. The gentlemen who undertook to make the decisions were all strangers, in order to make it as fair as possible. There were three: Mr. Zeigler of DeLand, Mr. Paulin of Parkersburg, West Va., and Mr. Blake of Lake Helen. The awards were as follows: To the prettiest turnout, the McCullough twins, of Goodall—a knife, fork and spoon; under six months, Lansing Taylor, of Rock Point—teething ring; 6 to 18 months, Bessie Jibb, of Daytona—silver spoon; blonde from 18 months to 3½ years, Edward Stewart, of Daytona—a ring; brunette from 18 months to 3½ years, Florence Smith, Jacksonville—powder box and puff; healthiest, Lucile Johnson, of Seabreeze, napkin ring, and fattest, Myrtle McDonnell, Gainesville—pair of gold pins.

So popular and fascinating did the babies prove that time sped away and the concert was necessarily cut short, but was greatly enjoyed none the less. Mr. Zeigler, of DeLand, and Mr. Stewart, of Daytona, sang several selections; Miss Lennie Ender played the mandolin; Fay Stewart and Lois Van Valzah both sang and recited. Then supper was soon in order and the tables kept full until the ladies disposed of nearly everything they had. Altogether the success was wonderful considering the day, and the committee are wondering where they would have been if it had been a beautiful day and the people had turned proportionately, for they cleared $51.70 as it was. Their thanks are due first of all to Mr. Keating, who so generously proffered the Casino; to the merchants of Daytona, who furnished the money for the prizes, and expenses; to the grocers and ladies, who furnished the eatables; to the mothers who made such an effort to get the little ones there; to the public who braved the inclement weather, and to everyone who in any way contributed to its success.

O, the witchery that lies in the fleeting dimples of a baby's smiles.

Once there were two beautiful white eggs laid side by side in a nice new nest. A great big man gathered them up with his rough hands and sold them to a grocer. And one little egg was a good little egg and went into an angel cake, but the other little egg was a very, very bad little egg and got mashed on an actress.—Town Topics.

Not Elastic Either. Miss Newitt—Don't be afraid; it won't hurt you. It's half dead, and besides it's nothing but a gartersnake. Miss Plumleigh—Gartersnake? The idea! That little thing? Some attenuated old bachelor must have given it that name.—Philadelphia Press.

Candid. A.—You see that lady over there? She is Mrs. A. I fell in love with her at first sight. What do you think of that? B.—I think it would have been better had you taken a second look.—Kansas City Star.
